13 CELL THERAPEUTICS, INC.,

14 Defendant.

Case No. CV04-0290RSM

ORDER DENYING PLAINTIFF'S
MOTION TO COMPEL DISCOVERY

This matter comes before the Court on plaintiff's Motion to Compel Discovery. (Dkt. # 44). Plaintiff requests that the Court compel defendant to (1) produce documents responsive to plaintiff's Requests for Production Numbers 5, 8, 19, and 21; and (2) identify the search terms and search methodology used in responding to such requests. (Dkt. #44).

The basis of the motion appears to be that plaintiff did not receive the volume of responsive materials that it expected. (Dkt. #44 at 4). Plaintiff does not identify specific documents that defendant is improperly withholding, but instead expresses a concern that defendant's search was inadequate. (Dkt. #44 at 5). Plaintiff further asserts that defendant refuses to certify that no additional responsive documents exist. (Dkt. #44 at 7). However, defendant has stated it will certify that it has produced all responsive documents with the exception of those withheld as privileged. (Dkt. #45, Ex. E).

Notably, it appears that the parties arranged to exchange privilege logs on November 28, 2005, and at that time, defendant would produce any remaining responsive non-privileged documents. (Dkt.

1 #46 at 4). Because this motion to compel was noted for November 18, 2005, it is hardly surprising that
 2 defendant had not yet certified that all such documents had already been disclosed. In fact, because
 3 plaintiff did not wait until the agreed-upon exchange, this motion appears to be premature.

4 A party seeking to compel discovery must include in the motion “a certification that the movant
 5 has in good faith conferred or attempted to confer with the person or party failing to make the discovery
 6 in an effort to secure the information or material without court action.” Fed. R. Civ. P. 37(a)(2)(B).
 7 This “meet-and-confer” requirement mandates that the parties not only meet face-to-face or by telephone,
 8 but also “make genuine efforts to resolve the dispute by determining precisely what the requesting party
 9 is actually seeking; what responsive documents or information the discovering party is reasonably capable
 10 of producing; and what specific, genuine objections or other issues, if any, cannot be resolved without 11 judicial intervention.” Cotracom Commodity Trading Co. v. Seaboard Corp., 189 F.R.D. 456, 459 (D.
 12 Kan. 1999).

13 Here, the parties claim to have conducted two telephonic meet-and-confers at which they 14 discussed, among other things, the exchange of privilege logs. (Dkt. #46 at 4). However, because as of 15 the noting date for this motion, the parties had not yet exchanged privilege logs, the Court finds they are 16 still engaged in the process of resolving their disputes and a motion to compel is premature. See Tri-Star
 17 Pictures, Inc. v. Unger, 171 F.R.D. 94, 100 (D.N.Y. 1997) (finding lack of good faith in effort to solve
 18 differences without judicial intervention when moving party filed motion to compel before discovery
 19 responses were due).

20 This Court expects all parties to fully comply with their obligations under Fed. R. Civ. Proc. 26
 21 and 34. The Court agrees that plaintiff is entitled to an appropriate search for documents by defendant.
 22 See Association of Am. Physicians & Surgeons v. Clinton, 837 F. Supp. 454, 458 (D.D.C. 1993). While
 23 an affidavit from defendant disclosing its search terms may lay to rest any suspicions that its searches
 24 have been less than required to meet its discovery obligations, the Court finds that the parties are still
 25 engaged in the process of solving their differences, and therefore, it need not decide at this point whether 26 to compel disclosure of such a document.

 28 ORDER DENYING PLAINTIFF'S
 MOTION TO COMPEL DISCOVERY- 2

1 Accordingly, the Court, having considered the briefs filed in support of and in opposition to the
2 motion, and the remainder of the record, hereby ORDERS:

3 1) Plaintiff's motion to compel (Dkt. #44) is DENIED. However, nothing in this order prevents
4 the parties from renewing the motion after the parties have conferred in a good faith effort to resolve the 5 dispute without Court intervention.

6 2) The Clerk shall forward a copy of this Order to all counsel of record.
